THE PRESS.

CINCINNATI, THURSDAY, JUNE 2.

An Administration Party and an Opposition Party.

Always essentially differ in their modes and character. They are always unlike, simply because a party in power is a responsible agent, its doctrines and purposes becoming causes of practical effects. An opposition party has no direct responsibilities, and but one object. It wants power, and to acquire it, is "everything by turns, and nothing long," as regards its policy, its declarations and general tone. It follows Power, menaces its positions, combats its efforts, and overwhelms it by complications. The recent decision of the Supreme Court of Ohio, which nullifies in advance the contemplated State "nullification" of a plain section of the Constitution of the United States, and a law of Congress giving it active force, is a great political feature, not to be overlooked. The fugitive slave law, so long a rallying point for the Republican party of Ohio, is now under the protection of the State Judiciary, which has confirmed—if such a word be proper in such a connection—the decision of the U. S. District Court of Ohio. The logical consequences are apparent. The ultra Abolition wing of the opposition is paralyzed—it is defunct, cut off from legal pretence, even, by this decision. It will, however, continue to act, as a mob power and disturber of the "due course of law."

The Republican party, as a nucleus of an "opposition" general, has acquired a prestige and vitality which has given it renown and a political effect, which could not be secured by a development from within itself; it has gathered bulk by outside additions, like a snow-ball, instead of from an internal development. The "Americans" rejoice at this victory over Northern "nullification." All good citizens, sound practical men, are satisfied. The decision of our Supreme Court is a quietus in fact and theory. What will now be the shibboleth of the opposition? In answer to this question—so interesting to politicians—we can speculate only. The war in Europe, an outside pressure, great national questions bearing upon immense material issues, may come up to divide our people, and form the bases of new political parties. The civil dissensions and local jealousies of the past few years, will probably die out. Let us see. Matters of finance, of free trade and maritime rights, of supplies of food to a continent in arms, and more remotely manufactures, are all involved, to say nothing of those less tangible but quite as exciting topics, the civil and religious rights of millions of people, depending on the thunderbolts of war.

Already the organ of the self-styled Infallible Church, in this city, has blown its trumpet of alarm, is rallying its strength; for a blow to its head in Europe will be felt to the remotest extremities of its body. It may be, that the American element in politics is to be again vitalized, and assume a commanding position—a watchful neutrality. It may be, that the shock of empires, the tottering of thrones, the overthrow and founding of dynasties, the removal of all the old centers of social, civil and religious gravitation, may reach this great republic. It may be, that excitements and intrigues, and attempts to change American policy to suit subordinate interests, may call for an earnest and emphatic demonstration from the American people. Who can know what is to be in a year, in a few months? Our great strength as a nation is appreciated by all; our influence may be counted by antagonistic factions, whose political power in this free land will be offered as a conciliatory boon to contending politicians and parties. But it is to be hoped that the United States, that our people will hold to a purely American course. Our country will be, as it has been, free to all who come here to peace and plenty, to be Americans in act and principle, and nothing else.

The battle of civil and religious liberty has been fought on this continent, the victory has been won; and while we are ready to welcome all, and do welcome all from abroad, it is a part of the contract that ALL foreign allegiance be thrown off, and all become Americans. Our institutions are our own, and unlike all others. Our position is in advance of other nations, as regards social equality, civil rights, and religious liberty. Let us keep it. Meantime, whatever inevitable dissensions—the fruit of free thought and its free expression—may arise, let us never forget that to this generation is confided the task to keep alive American doctrines and sympathies, and all their practically realizing instrumentalities.

HOME INTEREST.

In regard to Pictures, if we should try to write a volume in a few words, we would say "BALL & THOMAS, 120 WEST FOURTH STREET."

Daguerrean Gallery, South-West corner of Sixth and Western Row, over Harnard's Drug Store. Pictures taken and put in good cases for 20 cents.

Warranted to please. We understand that the best and cheapest likenesses in the city are to be had only at Applegate's Broadway Gallery of Art. They cost only twenty-five cents.

For Wedding and Visiting Cards, go to HALL'S, No. 14 West Fourth street; also for fine English and French Note Paper and Envelopes.

Harlan & Wilson, No. 30 West Fourth street, pay particular attention to the Photographic art. Call at their rooms and examine for yourselves.

Welcome to our Railroad Visitors!

Cincinnati has a heart and hand of welcome to the strangers within her gates this day. It is a proud thing to admit into our house sisters and brothers from abroad. We so distinguish our visitors who reached our city last night by a new route of travel opened from our city to the great Lakes of the West. May we be linked by ties and braces of mutual interest, and delight in the interchange of generous civilities. We boast not of our city vauntingly, but we are willing to represent ourselves by proffering the skill of our mechanics, as examples. Visitors, be at home in the Queen City! Visit the work-shops and see the handcraft display of our artisans, and if possible step in at eleven o'clock this morning and see the practical working of a Caloric Engine, operating by heated air, driving a double cylinder, and printing the "DAILY PRESS."

TO ADVERTISERS.

To-morrow morning we shall print, by Caloric, a tremendous edition, besides the regular, of the "DAILY PRESS," for the purpose of presenting every visitor now in our city with a copy. This number will be one of great interest—it will contain illustrations of some of our public buildings. Prominent will be the NEW MASONIC TEMPLE, of this city. Hand in your favors early.

ORDINANCES failed to pass, last night, to bowlder Walnut street, from Canal to Twelfth streets. Also, Eighth street, from Main to Walnut streets.

A LARGE number of resolutions to contract, and ordinances to grade and pave streets, which have accumulated before the City Council, was indefinitely postponed last night.

AMMI LORD, an employee at the store of Leavitt & Bevis, on the corner of Fifth and Vine streets, was severely injured on Tuesday evening, at Clifton, by jumping from his horse, while riding with a young lady whose horse became unmanageable.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—At the Cape of Good Hope, a large and respectable Moslem population is springing up. Some few years ago, it will be recollected that ship loads of young females were sent to the Cape, under the auspices of goodly ladies here, and consigned to the supervision of the colonial bishop there. These females became known as the "Bishop's Ladies," and his charitable chaplains tried in vain to find employment for them. Some did what they would have done had they never left New England—turned to old and evil ways; others, strangely enough, married with Moslem laborers and farmers, mounted a natty fez cap, and sent their husbands and children to mosque as neat as new pins, and as happy as the very sons and daughters of the prophet, upon whom he was more abuse than he deserves. "In what have I done ill?" is the common question of those who have thus gone over to the queer ways of their conduct. "Did ever you see a Moslem laborer, artisan, or farmer drunk? I have a husband who loves me and my children. How would it have been had I run my chance and married with a European who asked me in Cape Town?" and so many of the "Bishop's Ladies" became calmly contented mothers of Selims and Fatimas, forgot their catechism, and say, in common with their lords, "There is no God but God."—London Athenaeum.

APACHE WHISKY.—Our correspondent at Apache Pass, says the Arizona, gives us the following account of the manner in which the Indians of this region manufacture their "disguise," or "disguise," an intoxicating liquor of extraordinary potency. He says: The corn is first soaked for twenty-four hours, a hole is then dug in the ground, generally in a wigwam, and some dry grass laid on the bottom; on this grass the corn is placed, and a layer of grass over it. Four or five times a day warm water is sprinkled over the corn, and at night the family sleep on it, to increase the warmth; and make the corn sprout quick. At the end of four or five days the corn is all sprouted; it is then dried and pounded fine, put in a kettle and boiled for five hours, when, cooled, it is mixed with sugar and flour, and left to ferment for twelve hours, when it is ready for drinking. Although not rank to the taste, and fiery, its intoxicating power is very great, and when an Indian has a quart or two on board, he don't care a copper who is President of the United States.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—An accident occurred at Akron, Saturday evening, May 28th, by which an estimable lady was instantly killed. Just at dusk Rev. George W. Clark was driving along Howard street, near the center of the village, his wife in the buggy with him. He stopped for the purpose of unblanching and watering his horse at a spring beneath the bank at the roadside. He had unfastened the side strap and one of the traces, when the horse started, and in attempting to stop him, the animal was reined directly over, and down the precipitous bank, some twenty feet sheer, plunged. Mrs. Clark, sitting in the carriage, was thrown violently upon her head. She was taken up, gasped once or twice, and expired. The concussion, so sudden and violent, probably caused the rupture of a blood vessel, and death as instantaneous as can be conceived; no fracture of the head or dislocation of the neck was apparent.

SANTA RITA S. M. Co.—The Santa Rita S. M. Co. have just completed and put in operation a furnace and vases for the reduction of the ore of the Crystal mine. The trial of the works was made last week, and on Saturday the plancha was refined in the vase, and a plancha of silver was extracted. The success of their first attempt at smelting must be highly gratifying to the company. It is only four months since the train of the company arrived at its destination, and in this short time, with a limited number of hands, they have accomplished much in the way of opening mines, making roads, and putting up improvements. We trust this plancha is but the commencement of a silver stream, which may hereafter flow uninterrupted from these mountains.—Arizonian, May 12.
